1. Number of days, after receipt of the permit application, by which the Agency must be ready to take final action.

2. Average number of days from the date the Agency receives the original application until the date the Agency issues the permit

3. The permit process for a Construction Permit, an Operating Permit, a Permit Renewal and a Major Permit Modification Request is a two step process: (1) a draft permit is first public noticed for public comment; and then (2) based upon the information received during the public comment period, a final permit is issued.

4. A public hearing on the draft permit may be held if there is significant interest in the draft permit

5. Once a draft permit decision has been made by the Agency, a local residents are notified of the decision and allowed to provide comments on the draft permit.

6. UIC permits are only issued for a ten year period. If the Permittee desires to operate the well for more than ten years, then they must submit an application for a renewed permit.
